

Grow your biotech company where the science already leads.

Canada already has the talent, the clinical trial infrastructure, and one of the highest concentrations of active biotech firms in the OECD. What's still open is which companies build their next chapter here. We help you land, get introduced to the right people, and set up to grow.

The Opportunity

- Growing Canada's domestic life sciences investment pool is a stated national priority not yet a solved problem, per BIOTECCanada.
- Global competition for biotech ideas, companies, talent, and capital is, in the association's own words, more intense than it has ever been.
- New biotech products can take 7 to 10 years to clear Health Canada review. A rigorous bar that rewards teams who engage the regulatory and ecosystem path early.
